Election/Restrictions

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-16, drawn to a method for calibrating a work function of a non-contact voltage sensor, classified in class 324, subclass 601.
- II. Claims 17-26, drawn to a method for calibrating and adjusting a substrate based on the work function, classified in class 324, subclass 601.
- III. Claims 17-31, drawn to a system for determining an electrical parameter of a substrate, classified in class 324, subclass 755.
- VI. Claims 32-55 drawn to a corona discharge system, classified in class 361, subclass 222.

Inventions I and II are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because the combination does not require the controlled environment to purge the area around the reference sample with inert gas. The subcombination has separate utility such as determining a work function correlation factor of a reference integrated circuit stored in an isolated area.

Inventions (I and II) and III are related as process and apparatus for its practice. The inventions are distinct if it can be shown that either: (1) the process as claimed can be practiced by another materially different apparatus or by hand, or (2) the apparatus as claimed can be used to practice another and materially different process. (MPEP § 806.05(e)). In this case invention III is an apparatus that could be used in any controlled experiment between a sample in a known environment and a sample in an isolated environment.

Inventions (I, II, and III) and VI are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different modes of operation, different functions, or different effects (MPEP § 806.04, MPEP § 808.01). In the instant case the different inventions I, II, III, are methods/systems having to do with non-contact voltage sensors while invention IV is a corona discharge system containing conductive rods used for discharging an object.

If applicant chooses to elect Invention IV, applicant must elect a single disclosed species of the following patentably distinct species of the claimed invention: Figure 4A, Figure 5A, and Figure 6.

Applicant is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 to elect a single disclosed species for prosecution on the merits to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. Currently, there are no generic claims.

Applicant is advised that a reply to this requirement must include an identification of the species that is elected consonant with this requirement, and a listing of all claims readable thereon, including any claims subsequently added.

An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered nonresponsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.

A telephone call was made to Ann Marie Mewherter on August 25, 2004 to request an oral election to the above restriction requirement, but did not result in an election being made.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement may be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).
